To Whom It May Concern:

Developing a web site can be a daunting task. Compiling the right information to meet your target audiences' needs is only part of the equation. Presenting that information in a creative way is another component. And, making it all fun and interesting to the web site guest is, well, almost too much for the novice to consider. We needed assistance to develop our site and, after interviewing several design houses, selected Visia.

It was clear from visiting Visia-designed sites that they really took the time to learn about their clients. Each site was unique. Each site reflected the client's corporate image. Each site met specific information requirements. It was immediately evident to us that Visia does not use a cookie-cutter, one-design-fits-all approach to web site development. This was especially important to us.

The web site Visia designed for us is receiving rave reviews for its creativity and ease of use. It meets our audiences' information needs and is a valuable addition to our public information program.

Throughout the project, our Visia representative, Teddy Hadjiyska, was wonderful. She possesses an unparalleled blend of creativity and technical skills, and brought to the project a high level of enthusiasm. She gave thoughtful suggestions and special attention to enhancing the functionality of our site. Visia met all its deadlines and delivered a final product that exceeded our expectations.

We highly recommend Visia!

Sincerely,

Michelle Tuchman
Director of Communication
